Three Killed, Two Fatally Hurt On Motorbus

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 11.—A fast Pennsylvania express train crashed into a motor bus loaded with passengers at a grade crossing near Hubbsville, ten miles north of here today, completely wrecking the bus, killing three people and seriously injuring seven others, two perhaps fatally.

The dead are: George G. Ault, 65, Williamsport; Mrs. Sarah Hall, 45, Williamsport; Mrs. W. C. Anderson, Williamsport.

The bus returns between Williamsport and Bloomsburg. The train was on the Ellysia division and running east as it does not stop at Hubbsville, officials said.

Carried 750 Feet.
The bus had stopped about 25 feet from the crossing to discharge passengers and, according to stories of witnesses, the driver was changing from second to high gear while going over the crossing and failed to see the train. The engine crashed squarely into the middle of the bus and two of the dead with parts of the bus were carried 50 feet before the train was stopped.

The injured were taken to Williamsport Hospital where it is said that two of them may die.

There were eight men and two women in the bus.

The governor reviewed his charge of the alleged spread of lawlessness throughout the state in the last few months, attributing it to activities of secret organizations.

He declared that testimony taken by military courts under martial law administration laid the blame for growing lawlessness "at the doors of the Ku Klux Klan who represented in an exaggerated form, fear, falsehood and religious hatred."

The message of the governor, formally opening the special assembly, admittedly one for investigation of the official acts of his administration, read in part as follows:

"October 6, 1933. I issued a proclamation convening the members of the ninth Oklahoma legislature into extraordinary session and you are now here in response to that call."

"The reasons for calling you together are well known, both to the members of the legislature and to the people of the state."

SCOUTS LECTURING ON FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

With fire prevention lectures in Port Arthur schools about completed, the outstanding portions of the program for observance of the week in this city are nearly finished.

Boy Scouts are handling the brief lectures and talks in the theatres of the city, the fire chief said. In all of the observance, reduction of fire hazards and caution in handling inflammable materials are stressed, Chief LaRue said.

Taken as a whole, fire prevention week in Port Arthur has passed very quietly thus far; only two alarms coming in since Sunday, and in neither case was any damage done, the chief said.

BRASS KNUCKLES DRAW ADDITIONAL CHARGE

An apparently harmless "brass knuck" carried by Jim Garland caused charges of carrying, concealed weapons to be placed against him when arrested last night by Detectives Rinehart, Seroggin and Strang.

Garland was sent in on charges of intoxication and on being searched was discovered to be the possessor of the aforementioned "knucks."

CORSICANA MEN IN BEAUMONT TO TESTIFY

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Oct. 11.—Judge J. S. Callcott and R. E. Prince, both of Corsicana, were in Beaumont Thursday morning to present evidence in the ninth court of civil appeals with reference to oil rights in the Corsicana oil fields involving a total value about $150,000.

They have arrived with the influx of University of Wisconsin students returning early to start the fall term, and security rushing.

Regulations restricting the use of cars by students are not applied at the Wisconsin institution. The result is the present general migration of good-looking youngsters to Madison, with college youths at the wheel.

ACID IS CAUSE OF BAD KIDNEYS

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys With the Bladder Washers or Back Flusher

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, gas builds up, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with bicarbonate and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts, cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lemon-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—adv.

FLAPPER PICTURES
 Life at its wildest and New York at its best—which means its worst—figure in the plot of Warner Brothers' latest production, "The Beautiful and Damned," at the Palace theatre now.
 Marie Prevost, admired by thousands, both as a leading beauty queen, and also as a star of screen, has the starring role in this picture. She acts the part of a beautiful but selfish and cold flapper, the kind seen everywhere on the main streets of any American town.

GARDEN AIRLINE
 "If action you crave, your craving will lead you to the Garden Airline tonight," is the word from the Ferguson Stock company management today, announcing the opening for a three-night run of the spectacular western drama, "Jesse James."
 The drama depicting the life and deeds of the most famous figure of that day, Jesse James, was constructed solely with the view of giving the audience a taste of the thrills that were almost the daily and nightly experience of the folk of real life at the time when the written law was not recognized and the bark of the six-shooter the voice of the court of last resort.
 With Eddie Ferguson in the title role, the cast in its rehearsal has shown promise of a highly satisfactory handling of the "play of a thousand peaks."

AT THE ELKS.
 The new bill at the Elks is full of pleasing surprises. Bennie Kirkland is again in the leading role of blackface and more than delights his audience. The scenery and costumes are completely changed from the first bill.
 Blanche Smith also again is in the limelight with her blues singing, and Stone and Gray have a very pleasing skit, "The Sherry Girl," with their own special setting. Bennie does a monologue that gleams lots of laughs and his Buck dance stopped the show.
 The picture "The Prisoner," starring Herbert Rawlinson, has some excellent scenes and thrills which blend into a very good picture. Baby Peggy gets her share of laughs.

HEART-APPEALING STORY.
 "The White Rose," now playing at the Peoples theatre tells a story old in theme, simple and direct, but in such a manner as to make it possibly the one "big" outstanding picture production of the present season. Mr. Griffith has forsaken mobs and huge ensembles for direct and careful characterization in this new season offering and has succeeded to such a degree that experts predict he again has shown the way for better pictures in the future.

The tale has to do with an orphan girl and a young divinity student who meet when the latter is making a walking tour to learn of the world and its ways. What transpires results in a denunciation of power and tender beauty.

Griffith journeyed with his company to the famous Bayou Teche country of western Louisiana for his scenes and they are recognized as the most strikingly charming yet shown on any screen.

Mae Marsh, after a long absence from the screen, returns with the most notable effort of her remarkable career.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Louis A. Longo, 16 years old, found a bank book several days ago. The book had been lost by Joseph E. Mitchell, and it showed a $9 balance at the Franklin National bank.

CAVEMAN FAILS IN LOVE QUEST

Bride Says She Married Him At Point of Pistol

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 11.—Caveman tactics failed to win the heart of 21-year-old Catherine Tomblin.

As a result Michael Heffner, 22, of 2145 Halstead avenue, will spend 90 days in the workhouse.

The new Mrs. Heffner Friday charged Heffner with attack.

"He stopped me in front of my home at 2145 W. 107th street, early Thursday morning, and drew a gun from his pocket, saying he would kill us both if I did not marry him," Mrs. Heffner testified.

"I Wanted to Live."

"I didn't love him but I wanted to live, so I consented to marry him."

Heffner kept his hand on the gun and several times attempted to draw it, the girl told Judge (Greene). Mrs. Heffner broke away from her new husband as they were leaving Justice of the Peace William Zoul's office, where Zoul unsuspectingly performed the ceremony, she told Assistant Prosecutor Glenn Miller.

Heffner spent Thursday night in county jail, clutching a picture of his wife in his hand.

"I love Catherine and can't live without her. I thought if we were once married she would live with me," he said.

"If she won't be my wife I'd just as soon stay in jail all my life in stead of 30 days."

Mrs. Heffner said: "I do not love Michael and won't live as his wife." She will seek annulment of the marriage, she says.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 11.—An extremely new type of bootlegger has been discovered by customs officials stationed on the Mexican border.

Uncle Sam's boundary watch dogs don't know whether to call them "manicuring bootleggers" or "bootlegging manicurers"; but, at any rate, they declare a man with long fingernails and a third can get a manicure and a drink for $1 in a certain border town, where harbor ship patron stand in line to have their hands brushed up.

Collector of Customs Roy Campbell explained that the customer thrusts one hand into the manicurer's two and jolly picks up a small bulb containing a drink, lifts it to his mouth and returns it to the table, with his breath "brushed up."

HORSE UPSIDE DOWN IN DITCH TWO DAYS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 11.—After spending two days in a five-foot ditch, with all four feet stuck up in the air like an old-fashioned four-post bed, Jim, a five-year-old bay horse, is back at the home of his owner.

The animal was snaked out of the ditch with an automobile wrecker. Jim's owner, Joe Robinson, says Jim is as much a member of his family as one of his pickaninies and declares he had searched the city over for the horse before he was found in a sewer ditch in an alley.

Beautiful Rolling Brims Are Featured By Smart Fall Hats

ARMING indeed are the lovely fall hats which are being worn by milady to meet the blustering winds which greet at every corner these cool October mornings.

Rolling brims are outstanding features of the fall hats. Some roll up on one side and down on the other, higher on the side than the other, roll all around the shape. The back is sponsored for practical all sorts of brims. From recent indications the clothes are going to prevail over the fakes, although the medium pop pokes with short brims and deep, narrow front brims looking well. The helmet cloche, the plainer and more serviceable is also favored.

Colors are in demand, and what has effects there are seen to be often toques, to which are given draping touches. Some draping cuffs are being seen, but these are not so flamboyant in their decorations as were the initial ones a few days ago, when everything was as in its tendencies.

Irregularity is gradually creeping to the mode, but the lines remain graceful and the irregularities are gradual than striking. Among the hats are the high, round plaque hats on the left, and down-dipping hats on the right. These are usually blunt, sometimes just the shape of the flat brim and sometimes formed from holding the brim at the back and the front.

Trimings are very prone to match the hats in tone and color. While trimings are not neglected, it is the color development that is far in the lead. Hats that show shades of color are likewise well thought of.

You Can Skip Rope But Can't Skip This

YOUR doctor can tell you that you wouldn't live very long if you didn't get from the food you eat the health building element known as Dextrose. It is indispensable for health building.

This is why Karo is such a wonderful food for growing children: It contains a large percentage of Dextrose which helps to put back into their bodies the vigor and energy they spend in their strenuous work and play.

Ask your grocer for either Blue Label or Red Label Karo—both of equal nutrition.

YOU could not live long without Dextrose. The starch and sugar in all food you eat—bread, vegetables, potatoes—must be changed into dextrose before you can use it as an energy food.

HERE'S THE WAY IT IS DONE

Probably you've wondered how news of what's going on at the White House gets around the country so quickly. Here's how! Messrs. Johnson, new Minnesota senator, has just finished talking with President Coolidge and the "boys" of the press are plying him with questions. Those few young men write for news associations that reach the entire country.

Man Arrested in Clothing Store Following Chase

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Incarcerated in a cell, Dennis Nolan, 21 years old, bemoans false friends and Bueche reveals. The combination led him through an uproar of women's screams along Riverside drive and One Hundred and First street clad in "Civic Virtue" style in search of clothes after his "friends" had confiscated those he wore when he fell asleep after a social drink or two.

His apparition, clad in "Civic Virtue," caused considerable excitement among women and children on Riverside drive at One Hundred and First street when they saw him dashing from bush to bush and from tree to tree edging toward the east side of the drive at One Hundred and First street.

The screams of the women and shouts of startled men attracted Patrolman Donovan, who saw the flitting figure and gave chase. "Civic Virtue" doubled back into a haberdashery at One Hundred and First street and Broadway. When the patrolman entered he found Nolan struggling to get into a bathrobe. He placed him under arrest and later arraigned him before Magistrate James M. Barrett in the night court.

Nolan told the magistrate he had been drinking and when he looked off some of his friends stole his clothes "for a joke."

Nolan said he went in quest of the men who had his clothing, but the search took him further and further from the house where he had been entertained. He tried to return, but did not recall the address, so sought shelter among the bushes in Riverside drive.

GUN AND TWO MILLION LANDS HIM IN CELL

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 11.—A surprising addition to Lowell's list of millionaires was discovered when Patrolman Alfred J. Conroy ran across a man who had a revolver for the sole purpose of guarding his $2,000,000.

"You mean to tell me you have $2,000,000?" Conroy asked.

"Yes, sir," replied Mike Kachoulas, "I have $2,000,000 in German marks."

But Conroy did not think there was any of Mike having a revolver merely to protect a few cents in American money, so he brought him to the police station.

SCHOOL BOYS TELL ALL ABOUT 'FUDLE' SYSTEM

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The magazine of Oden Farm, the Harrow preparatory school, publishes the following examination "howlers":

"William the First had a bell rung so that everyone should go to bed. This and the Domesday Book were called the Feudal system."

"The Feudal system was that if one man killed another, a man in the family of the murdered could kill the murderer."

"Africa is much hotter than some other countries because it is abroad."

"Durban is in India, where the native prince's first was King George."

"Water turns into a viper when it has."

"Water is melted stream."

BIRD SANCTUARY TO BE IN CEMETERY

DENVER, Oct. 11.—Bird sanctuaries in every cemetery in and near Denver are planned by Roland G. Parvin, state game and fish commissioner, he said.

Mr. Parvin expects to present the same plan to every game and fish department and ornithological society in the country.

LELAH CRANDALL'S FATE IN BALANCE

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 11.—The case of Lelah Crandall, formerly of Knoxville, Mo., who is on trial here charged with first degree murder for the slaying on May 22 of W. E. Hemmings, former state legislator, has gone to the jury.

SHE'S MARRIED NOW, KISS COST HIM $26

KEYSTONE, S. D., Oct. 11.—Bert Peterson, 22, stole a kiss. It set him back $26 in court, at Rapid City and he spent a night in jail.

Rapid Base Running by Pipp and Witt Costly For

Overdaring of Babe Ruth Dropped First Game to Giant Nine

McGraw's Protoges Bunch Hits With Casey Stengel's Stellar Performance in Ninth To Settle First Clash On $2,000,000 Stadium

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Off on the wrong foot again, the New York Yankees were facing the prospect of having some unpleasant bits of 1921 and 1922 history repeat themselves as they prepared for the second game of the world's series today with the Giants.

Down one on the National League champions, outplayed and outbatted in a game they should have won at least six times, the plight of the Yankees was painful.

After yesterday's exhibition of how they can't play ball, the Yankees must have felt this morning like the weather—cloudy, murky, gloomy and sour.

Wetted down by a night of intermittent rain, the field at the Polo Grounds where the battle is to be resumed today was ready to give the Athletics and the fans another day to think over one of the greatest games ever played, which opened the series.

Commissioner Landis said this morning that he had received a report that the field was in good condition and that the teams would play this afternoon if threatened rain held off.

One wisecrack was made after the game that no team in the world could have lost a game like the opening conflict but the Yankees. No other major league team of first division class could have acted so mentally sluggish and so mechanically uncoordinated.

Ruth tripped in the fifth with one out; Schang doubled in the sixth with two out; Dugan tripled in the seventh with one out and Pipp in the eighth with one out and the Yankees didn't score.

Stated base running by Witt and Pipp and the overrunning of Babe Ruth in trying as Ruth always tries to win over the Yankees the game.

Jimmy Connell, the $75,000 California beauty, connected quietly after the game.

"The best way to beat the Yankees is to let them get on base because they don't know what to do when they get there."

Low ground, alertness and the mechanical perfection of the Giants stopped every chance the Yankees had in the ninth inning was the decisive punch that caused the Yankees to take the count but it was George Kelly's miraculous stop of Ruth's surdoubt in the seventh and his phenomenal throw to the plate cutting off Dugan that stopped a winning rally by the Yankees.

No play in any series or any game could compare with the brilliance, quick thinking and spontaneous action provided by Kelly—not even the sensational Rawlings, Kelly and Groh double play that made the last out in the 1921 series. The Giants all figure that they are "in" now.

"That victory will be worth more than if we had beaten them 15 to 0," said one of the Giant players, said today. "If they had gone down in a one-sided game they would have thought that fine pitching stopped them, that they had all the bad breaks or that they were in a slump. But they outbatted us and we outthought them and they know they should have won the game. The Yankees can't think. They know it and they know that they can't learn to think in a few days."

The Giant players feel that they would take the series in straight games if they had Herb Pennock out of the way in the opener. The champions do not attempt to deny that they regard the left-handed former Boston pitcher very seriously.

Pennock no doubt will pitch today for the Yankees and it is almost certain that Art Nehf, the Giant southpaw, will oppose him. Nehf was ready to go yesterday and he was proved that he wasn't selected.

With Pennock in the box for the Yankees the Giants will make a switch in the outfield where Bill Cunningham will replace Casey Stengel. The other positions on the defense will be manned by the same agile, quick-thinking athletes.

All the Yankee regulars but against left-handed and right-handed pitching and they all think the same way against all kinds of pitching. As long as the Yankees refuse to exercise their mental alertness, the alleged weakness of the Giant pitching staff will be no factor in the series.

The Giants' players will probably tell their pitchers—"let them get on base and we'll take care of 'em for you."

In spectacular playing yesterday Stengel and Kelly held the limelight, but Frank Frisch, that brilliant Fordham, had as much to do with the victory as anyone. He made two phenomenal plays that cut off runs and he was all over the field.

The official paid attendance was 65,197 which made a new series record and the actual attendance probably was 55,000. The receipts, which

Varsity Paper to Follow the Longhorn Crew

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 11.—"All Varsity follows its Longhorns." Not only will the University of Texas Band and Cowboys and thousands of students and ex-students be present in Beaumont on October 13th for the Texas-Tulane football game, but the Daily Texan, official university newspaper, will appear on the streets of the city early Saturday morning.

Plans for the big special Beaumont edition of the Texan were announced today by William L. McCall, supervising business manager of the Texas Students Publications, Inc., and call for a large newspaper featuring sport and ex-student news and carrying general campus news and feature stories.

Ex-students of the university from all parts of South Texas will be in Beaumont for the game Saturday and a special section of the paper will be devoted to them. The very latest pictures of both Texas and Tulane teams and individual players, action pictures, line-ups, numbers of players, and other live sport news will be contained in the paper, making it a souvenir which ex-students and sport fans will be glad to preserve.

Ray E. Lee, managing editor of the Texan, and Miss Shirley Lomax, ex-student news editor, are devoting much time to these features and promise to present some highly readable material.

A. B. Smith, advertising manager of the Texan, spent Monday in Beaumont and Robert L. Murphy, circulation manager, leaves for Beaumont Thursday night to perfect plans for the distribution of the paper.

McGraw's Well Pleased With His Moses Boy

By NEA Service
NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—For years John J. McGraw of them three Giants has been looking high and low for a Jewish ball player.

Being emphatically Irish himself, Mr. McGraw deemed it essential to the continued success of his ball club to have a Jewish player.

No, no, not treasurer, player. He has finally succeeded. From Hutchinson, Kas., in the Southwestern League, McGraw bagged Moses Solomon, a first baseman.

Moses is somewhat of a Babe Ruth. Out in the bull-penches, or rather the bushes, Moses poked 48 homers in 112 games this year.

In his debut as a Giant he cracked out a two-base hit that decided a tenning ball game. "I like dot boys," admits Mr. McGraw, dropping instinctively into the Hebrew.

also established a new record, were $181,012, which was divided as follows: Advisory council $27,284.90; each club's share, $30,025.65; players' share $22,775.12.

MUGGSY GREAT BALL CONJURER

Mastermind Uses Simple Signals to Win

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Humped down in a dugout at the Polo Grounds, John McGraw, manager of the Giants, conjured, baseball magician and mastermind.

From his mangle fingers, stretch invisible wires and with them he dangles nine mannequins upon the field.

At the plate stands George Herman Ruth, the mighty Babe. In his fists he carries a catman club. With it he cracks at the invisible wires of John McGraw, slinger and batter at them.

With speeds logs he races around the bases, races against the invisible waves of the conjurer.

This is the world series of 1923 between the Yankees and Giants—a tale of a battle between John McGraw, the master mind and Babe Ruth, the master ball player, in an all-out battle of brain against brawn. A psychological feat.

The Giants won the first game of the series because the brain of McGraw was greater than the bat of Ruth. It was Casey Stengel, who pounded out the winning run for the Nationals, but it was John McGraw who made it possible.

McGraw uses the simplest signals in the world. With them he directs practically every ball that is pitched to the Yankee batters. With them he tells his batter when to hit and when to swing.

The conjurer works upon simple principles. He believes that the judgment of a man on the bench, out of the thrill of the contest, is better than the man working under the excitement of an actual play. He believes he can tell about seven times out of ten whether the next ball is going to be a strike or a ball. He believes that he can outguess the Yankee batter from the bench better than anyone could from the field.

McGraw gives his signals with his hands and the position of his body. They are relayed when the team is in the field by Snyder or Gowdy, his catchers.

Watson was taken out of the box yesterday because he refused to obey these signals, it is learned. Watson thought he knew what was best to do. McGraw let him get by with it for three innings and then jerked him. The Yankee had hit Watson for three runs.

"You can sit there for a while and watch how this team is run," McGraw sarcastically remarked when Watson came in from the mound.

The Yankee attack and defense is centered around Babe Ruth. No matter how many stars or near stars are on the team it wins only when Ruth is good and loses only when he is bad. Ruth is in top condition this year and McGraw's brain is as alert as it ever was.

The feud is on and one of them will win the baseball championship of the world.

Tom Sims Turns Loose The Low Down on What The World Series Means

By TOM SIMS
COLUMBUS, OHIO, Oct. 11.—If the Yankees lose this world series who do you think will win it?

I can frequently ask this question to Babe Ruth and I ramble about the big town here, separately.

Al, who knows, the answer? Who, indeed? I do. That's who? But I promised the Giants not to tell because their wives would run around spending the money before it is made.

All I am permitted to say at present is neither one of the two teams playing will fall below second place.

I can't tell you this secret, I have a big surprise for my little world series readers today.

Shut your mouths and open your eyes. Now listen.

I went out to the Polo Grounds and guess what I found? Goodie, you wouldn't guess in a thousand billion years. Well, here's what it was—I found a box of world series statistics.

The wind was used in selling at one world series game would cool the Yale Bowl half full of soup.

Breath used in pulling the umpire a bum during any three games would talk the best looking girl in the world into kissing the ugliest man in the world.

Forty per cent of the hot grounds missed would be caught if the players missing them were known.

If one man had the cigars smoked daily he could drop aches on 123,456,789 rips. If he had the cigars smoked at an entire series he could get elected sheriff.

Cigar-smoked during one world series game played and to end world series from the Polo Grounds to Denver.

The lengthy arguments about any one thing stand beside the Woodrow building would reach 40 miles above the top.

The distance taxi drivers carry stretchers on route to the game out of their way is even more distant than distant relations.

Advice given by the bleachers to the players would last a doctor 700 years if the doctor sold it instead of giving it away.

Late comers, trying to reach their seats, mash enough toes daily to make sausage for 50 families who really like sausage. And 47 brand new cuss words are added to our language daily by people whose toes have been stepped on.

MY TEACHING CLASS

TAKE ON SPORTS MEN

Following in natural order, according to the opinion of students from the group both to the fact that now come to the long from about.

There is always something to be learned in watching a class discussion of the sports with the students. To have the sharp attack of a crumpled and correctly struck ball is one of the real things that the class is to learn. The class will be excited about the fact that the class will be to keep down a pitcher's score.

But we are about to hold forth on a discussion of my theory the playing the iron. I have already received the proper stance to assume for the different clubs. But in case this instruction has not become firmly imbedded in your mind, I will go back a short way over the old ground.

Now then, the stance I advocate for executing the long iron shot in this advance the right foot, say about five inches, the right knee is slightly turned in while the left points out. The knees should be slightly bent, and the elbows just close enough to the body not to touch it.

The ball should be held in the left hand. In playing this stroke I stand a little farther out from the ball than for the mangle iron of the figure; the reason for this being that the weight of the club is a little longer. When making the back swing the club should be taken back toward the left hand, and the left arm held straight. Get it firmly imbedded upon the mind that the right elbow should be held closely to the body. In this particular stroke more wrist action is required, due to the fact that the back swing is longer than that required for the figure or mangle iron.

When making the back swing the club should be taken back toward the left hand, and the left arm held straight. Get it firmly imbedded upon the mind that the right elbow should be held closely to the body. In this particular stroke more wrist action is required, due to the fact that the back swing is longer than that required for the figure or mangle iron.

First we will deal with the hold-iron shot. In playing this stroke I stand a little farther out from the ball than for the mangle iron of the figure; the reason for this being that the weight of the club is a little longer. "I've got the finest voice in Squeaky Moo Land and I dare anybody to say I haven't."

"Quack, quack, quack!" went Missus Waddle Duck.

"Quack, quack, quack!" went her six children.

"Cluck, cluck, cluck!" went Missus Hen.

"Cluck, cluck, cluck!" went all the chickens and roosters.

"Gobble, gobble, gobble!" went all the turkeys, big and little.

"Moo!" called out Missus Cow, lifting her head—and her voice.

"Oink, oink, oink!" went all the pigs, looking through the barnyard fence.

"Honk, honk, honk!" hissed the geese.

"Ma!" went Billy Goat.

"Baa!" went Snipper Sheep, and all the other sheep out in the field said "Baa!" just to keep company.

"My goodness!" laughed Nancy.

"It sounds as though Squeaky-Moo Land was giving a concert."

"I think it is," said Mister Dodger solemnly. "Each one has a very good voice, too."

But suddenly a dreadful sound split the air. It was simply awful. It was so loud that the Twins clapped their hands, over their ears and Mister Dodger made a wry face.

"Hee, haw! Hee, haw!" it went over and over again.

And there stood Dumpty Donkey, grinning like a Cheshire Cat. "I've got the finest voice in Squeaky-Moo Land and I dare anybody to say I haven't."

The ducks waddled their tails and waddled off to the pond without answering.

The chickens all started to dig for worms.

The turkeys marched off and so did the geese.

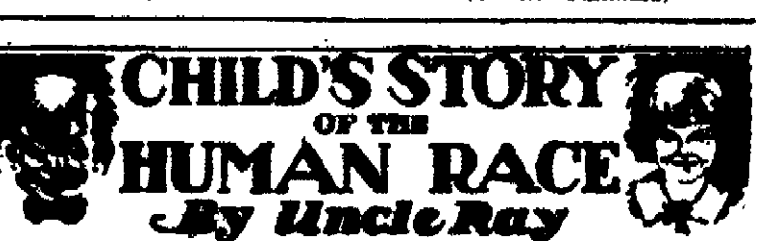

Billy Goat and Mister Sheep and all the pigs disappeared and Missus Cow and Crazy Calf switched their tails and went off for a drink.

Nobody said a word.

Just then Farmer Brown came along. "Got out?" he yelled crossly. "You're the only one of all my farm creatures who won't work for him living. You won't even pull my cart without balking. You're all voice and no brains, just like a lot of people I know."

Dumpty Donkey looked foolish and trotted away. But Mister Dodger and the Twins heard him say to himself: "I suppose I'll have to start to work if I want my board and keep. If Farmer Brown hitches me up tomorrow, I won't balk once."

CHAPTER I
Moving Sheets of Snow and Ice.

In your school geography you have probably read about the great ice sheet (or glacier) that spread over almost half of North America many thousands of years ago. Did you know there was also an ice sheet spreading over Europe at the same time? As a matter of fact, the northern part of Europe was covered with ice and snow. The southern part was not reached by the glacier, but it became colder than nowadays. The glacier stayed thousands of years, then slowly melted away.

There were at least three great ice sheets of glaciers before the one we have just spoken of. Each glacier spread over portions of Europe and North America.

The first glacier we know of came more than 500,000 years ago. It is believed there were no people in Europe at that time. There may have been people in Asia. Each glacier took thousands of years to come, and thousands of years to melt.

From where did the four glaciers come? From the north frigid zone. What made them move. Too much snow?

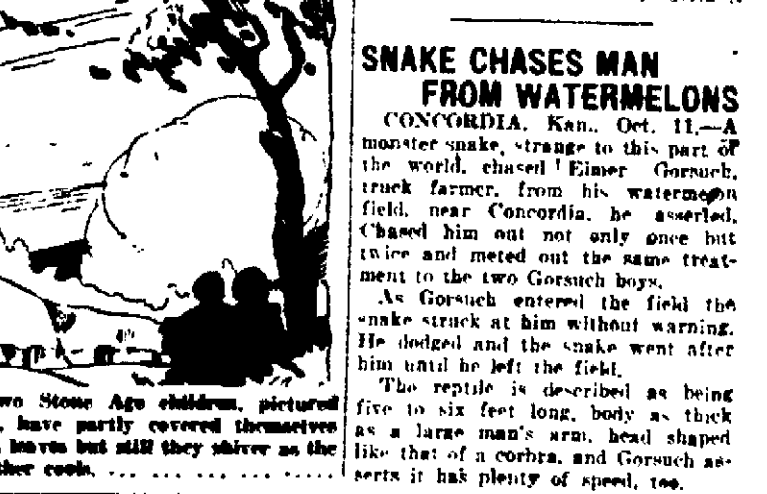

Let us try to give you an idea of how it was.

Think of the last time you made pancakes. You took a tablespoonful of batter and let it fall in the skillet. It fell rather slowly. What happened as more batter fell. The pancake spread. That is the way it was with the glaciers. More and more snow kept falling in the northland. As it fell it pressed on the snow beneath. That snow spread, just as pancake batter does.

The glaciers moved only a few inches or a few feet each day.

The earliest men in Europe are believed to have found the weather warm and enjoyable. As tens of thousands of years went by, however, it grew cooler. Although the glacier was still far away, the summers became shorter, the winters longer.

SNAKE CHASES MAN FROM WATERMELONS
CONCORDIA, Kan., Oct. 11.—A monster snake, strange to this part of the world, chased Elmer Gorsuch, truck farmer, from his watermelon field, near Concordia, he asserted. Chased him out not only once but twice and meted out the same treatment to the two Gorsuch boys.

Gorsuch entered the field the snake struck at him without warning. He dodged and the snake went after him until he left the field.

The reptile is described as being five to six feet long, body as thick as a large man's arm, head shaped like that of a cobra, and Gorsuch asserts it has plenty of speed, too.

Two Stone Age children, pictured here, have partly covered themselves with leaves but still they shiver as the weather cools.
